Hi Kevin

Quick question - by what date do we need to have the signed petition to you in order for Council to vote on the resolution at the Oct 19th meeting?

Thanks!

Subject: Email Records in Government: What's Private & What's Not- 11/4 Webinar

Dear Sandi Smith,

For those concerned with email record management in your government agency, join us for our leading 60-minute webinar:

"Email Records in Government: What's Private & What's Not"
Wednesday, November 4, 2009 1:00 PM ET
<http://www.governmenteducator.com/ME/0/2/p317REc/p3YNJJS2i/p0e>

Currently, few government agencies understand how to manage emails as records. There are even more questions as to what is a private email record and what is public. A lack in strict guidelines can lead to serious legal, operational, and public relation risks. Join us for a 60 minute webinar where you and your colleagues will learn:

-  Keys to determining what is and isn't a record
-  The difference between a public and private email record
-  Retention best practices- The dos and don'ts for deleting
-  Privacy in email: Understanding a changing law

SPEAKER

Benjamin Wright is the author of several technology law books, including Business Law and Computer Security, published by the SANS Institute. With 25 years in private law practice, he has advised many organizations, large and small, private sector and public sector, on privacy, computer security, records management and e-mail discovery and been quoted in publications around the globe, from the Wall Street Journal to the Sydney Morning Herald.

-  He wrote and presented to the Sri Lankan government a report on technology law, which contributed to the adoption of national e-commerce legislation in 2005.
-  Wright maintains a popular blog at <http://legal-beagle.typepad.com>.

Hosted by Progressive Business Publications, the leader in fast-read actionable advice on workplace issues, the audio conference gives you the opportunity to add immediate, impact to your marketing efforts in a manner that is:

FAST - No wasted time here. Get right to the heart of the matter in a 1-hour block designed to easily fit into your busy schedule.

CONVENIENT - No airlines. No travel. No time out of the office. Listen from the comfort and convenience of your desk.

EASY - A telephone is all the equipment you need. Just dial in, punch in your access code, and you're in. That's it. Follow along with the audio conference handouts provided in advance.

ACTIONABLE - Our audio conferences provide money-saving tactics you can start using right when you hang up the phone.

IDEAL FOR MULTIPLE LISTENERS - Use a speakerphone and as many people as you want can listen in - at no extra cost to you. Many professionals use these sessions as a cost-efficient, time-efficient means of training supervisors, managers, and staff and reinforcing key issues in a fresh new manner that they will remember and act on.

AFFORDABLE - Priced at $199, it is a fraction of the cost of travel and attendance fees for other high-priced conferences or seminars.

Actually, it had been taken off the agenda, but I don't know why that didn't come up on the digital version. I did make a point of stating that I would not support it, should it return, and that neighborhoods and the Parks Advisory Commission should have ample opportunity to review and comment on such a proposal should it return. Thanks everyone.

From: H [REDACTED] mSent: Monday, October 05, 2009 9:55 PMTo: Briere, Sabra; [REDACTED]; Barrett, David (PAC); [REDACTED]Subject: Where Will the River Flow?

Dear Ms. Briere,

I'm one of the persons (along with Joe O'Neal, David Barrett, and Jonathan Bulkeley) who has been meeting with members of City Council to discuss issues surrounding the proposal to remove Argo Dam. David Barrett informed me that you were concerned about possible consequences of dam removal vis a vis the MichCon service center which is located in the middle of the Huron River flood plain below the dam.

Your concerns are well placed! Lost and not yet addressed in the controversy about removing Argo Dam is the question of "Where Will the River Flow if the Dam is Removed"? Instead of continuing in a southerly direction the Huron River today turns sharply northward below Argo Dam (see overhead photo below).

This is not a natural or normal way for a river to flow. The abrupt, "fish hook" bend was not always present. Historical maps (dated 1895 and 1943) show that the river channel at one time roughly paralleled the AMTRAK railway... and passed under the present location of the MichCon service center .

Sometime between 1895 and 1943 the Huron River changed its course or was deflected northward into the channel it now occupies. This deflection was made possible in part because of the presence of Argo Dam which dissipates some of the energy and momentum of the river flow in a plunge pool and stilling basin at the base of the dam.

If the dam is removed the river will attempt to re-occupy its old channel. This would result in flooding and inundation of the MichCon service center and surrounding areas. A coal gasification plant was located there earlier, and toxic residues are buried in the ground. River training measures, e.g., bendway weirs, vanes, and/or groins, will be required to confine the river to its present channel and prevent this from happening.

If you are interested, I can send you a brief written report in the mail that provides additional information, maps, and photographs illustrating this dilemma. The report uses too much storage capacity (because of its graphics) to attach to this E-mail

I've shown these photographs/maps to and discussed the situation with David Derrick who is a hydraulic engineer with the US Corps of Engineers, Engineering Research and Development Center. He is one of the foremost authorities in the US on streambank protection and river training measures. David has designed and supervised the construction of these protective measures on small and large rivers.

He noted the following:

- 1) It will be challenging to keep the Huron River out of its old channel if the dam is removed, Robust (and costly) river training and bank protection structures would be needed
- 2 Hydraulic modeling studies, e.g., HEC-RAs are required to assess post dam removal flow conditions and to select and design necessary training measures.

These studies have NOT been undertaken nor construction costs determined. These investigations should precede any serious proposal to remove Argo Dam. It simply does not make any sense to spend huge amounts of money to remove Argo Dam only to turn around and spend an equivalent amount of money constructing river training structures to keep the river in its present channel (and out of the MichCon service center) if the dam is removed.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss these considerations with you further. Thank you for your interest in this important issue.

Sincerely,

Donald H. Gray

Hello everyone,

Thanks so much for your help at yesterday's house party for the Iraq Water Project - Ann Arbor! It was a great success and it could not have happened without such great help from the three of you.

I just finished counting the money, and after miscellaneous expenses for house party supplies are covered, we raised $1100! This is very close to our goal, and I will contact Art Dorland from Vets for Peace to see if they have enough in their fund to cover the difference so that we can send a water treatment unit ASAP. I'll keep everyone posted! Also, I'll be sending a press release out to local media in a bit to let them know that the house party happened, so I'll send out links to any press hits we get over the next few days.

We are doing great work! Have a great week and I'll be in touch in the near future.
