Having a home, a family, and an apartment or boarding house I question the purpose and intent of redefining the Wayne St home.

I easily recognize how lovely the applicants would be as neighbors but they are six unrelated adults, some transient, all with cars. This would be a boarding house. It should meet inspection, health, safety, fire, construction and zoning rules of group living.

Any decision without consideration to the above and extensive citizen input and city long term planning to such a definition would be a mistake
