

December, 2012
Packard Square
Proposed Site Plan Amendments

On May 2, 2011 the City Council approved the site plan which included a color scheme using tan and beige colors. In December, 2012, the developer proposed to revise the color scheme to include more contrasting colors to break up the elevations and separate the project into segments. There are two new 3D renderings created in December, 2012: one showing the original colors, and an updated version with the new colors.

Rendering Showing Original Colors

Rendering Showing New Colors, December 2012