Proclamation for Earth Day 2012

Proclamation

Earth Day

April 16, 2012

- Whereas, the natural resources of the state and nation should be used wisely for the future, and should be the concern of government at the local, state and national levels; and*
- Whereas, April 22, 2012 is the 42nd anniversary of the international observation of Earth Day, which was launched in Ann Arbor on March 10-14, 1970; and*
- Whereas, the City of Ann Arbor fosters environmental stewardship through citizen involvement in numerous commissions and programs including the Environmental Commission, the Energy Commission, the Mayor's Energy Challenge, Natural Areas Preservation programs, and events including the Green Fair and Huron River Day; and*
- Whereas, the City of Ann Arbor has adopted 10 environmental goals and tracks 60 indicators on the City's State of our Environment website, and via the City's Sustainability Plan, Climate Action Plan, Solid Waste Plan, Transportation Plan, and the Urban & Community Forest Management Plan; and*
- Whereas, the city supports the youth outdoor education programs at park facilities, day camps, classroom visits, Michigan Green Schools certification, and an in cooperation with Ann Arbor Public school environmental education field trips; and*
- Whereas, the City of Ann Arbor joins with the national Earth Day Network to recognize that environmental education helps youth develop the necessary skills and expertise to address the environmental and economic challenges ahead and helps support future citizens involvement in government decision making.*

Now, Therefore, I, John Hieftje, Mayor of Ann Arbor, do hereby proclaim Saturday April 22nd as Earth Day in Ann Arbor, Michigan and recognize the local environmental non-profits that are continuing the environmental tradition of environmental education by coordinating the 42nd Earth Day Festival. The City of Ann Arbor renews its commitment to citizen involvement in the sustainable management of natural resources and encourage all citizens to actively participate in this years' Earth Day Festival at the Leslie Science & Nature Center on Saturday April 22nd, 2012.

*I hereby set my hand and seal
This 16th day of April, 2012*

John Hieftje, Mayor
