Michigan Wetlands Meeting

Friday, March 12, 2010 at 9 a.m.

hosted by the
Michigan Wetlands Association

Agriculture and Natural Resources Week
Kellogg Center, Michigan State University

Are You Interested in Wetland Science, Policy and Stewardship?

This meeting will provide a great opportunity to hear about current wetland issues and learn about the formation of a Michigan Wetlands Association. The meeting will be of significance to those interested in wetland science, policy and stewardship in Michigan, including:

- Wetland professionals
- University faculty and students
- Environmental and conservation organization staff
- State, federal, local and tribal agency staff
- Interested individuals

The meeting will include presentations from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment and other wetland professionals on current wetland issues, including recent amendments to Michigan's wetland law, changes in wetland delineation methods, and new wetland monitoring and assessment efforts. A session on formation of a new Michigan Wetlands Association will also be included.

Please register for this meeting by Friday March 5, 2010. There is no registration fee but registration is limited. Box lunches will be provided to the first 100 individuals to register, so register soon!

Funding for this meeting is being provided by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and Environment (DNRE) Wetlands Program as part of a continued effort to improve communication on wetland issues through workshops and conferences.

"To maintain the Huron River watershed's health in the face of increased population, we must change current patterns of development by encouraging higher density where infrastructure already exists, and holding onto our natural areas so they can continue to provide the ecological services necessary to maintain quality of water, air, land, and life."

"The days where we're just building sprawl forever, those days are over." -- President Barack Obama
