Subject: Michigan Daily Inquiry

Hello,

My name is Amanda and I am a student journalist with the Michigan Daily. I'm reaching out because I covered the city's discussions of taking over ownership of state-owned trunk lines during the summer, and wanted to follow up on the matter now that some time has passed. I think this is a topic that can be a bit confusing for us students, but is certainly relevant when it comes to pedestrian safety, so I would love to be better informed.

If anyone on the transportation commission would be available to speak with me in the coming weeks it would be really helpful to better understand how the commission came to its recommendations, how this plays into pedestrian safety and whether there are any updates on negotiations.

Thanks,
Amanda
