Subject: Pedestrian safety

Hello,

Recently my family (all adults) went to a restaurant downtown for a celebration dinner. As we walked across the street with the light, we were almost blasted into by a biker ignoring the traffic signals.

While much has been done to cater to bike riders, the riders themselves often seem to think they don't have to follow the laws. I have had incidents while being both a driver and a pedestrian.

Are there bike riding officers patrolling the streets? What can be done about this? I come downtown much less frequently now because of the scooters and bike traffic increase, and especially the way traffic laws are not followed.
