Good afternoon.

I live off Washtenaw between Huron parkway and US-23. As a long-time Ann Arbor resident, I am disappointed in the decision to open the chick -fil-a at Washtenaw and Huron Pkwy.

This corridor was already unsafe for drivers and pedestrians alike. Since the restaurant's opening, the area has become almost undrivable for people living in the area. Additionally, the availability of access to the plaza where the restaurant is located has become dangerous. With the McDonald's drive through across the street, I would have thought that those in city planning would have realized this might cause additional traffic issues in an already strained corridor.

What's done is done, but things like this are what makes me strongly consider leaving Ann Arbor after 20 years.

This corridor really needs severe restructuring for safety of the people using it. This whole stretch of washtenaw could seriously benefit from being turned into a boulevard like Woodward.

Kind regards,
