The justification for this plan includes reducing the sky-high price of housing, though there is reason to doubt this plan will actually bring prices down. It isn't clear this has been successful in other cities and, despite what is being said, the city made little effort to let us know about it. You could have, for example, sent out postcards (or included a letter with our property tax/water bills) to all households informing us of the plan. Therefore few residents are aware of the plan, though some residents have been making an effort to inform the public and opposition to moving forward without more input from us is growing.

So I close with this simple request: Pause the Plan.
