Just curious could someone explain just what this expense is for? What sort of "big data" is the city collecting and visualizing? There was no explanation in the agenda.

I oppose the part of this language that deals with electronic communications as a form of harassment, because it is inconsistent with the definition of harassment as given earlier in the code. Is this supposed to be a catch-all for things like cyber-bullying? It is difficult for me to imagine how online language rises to the level of "non-verbal conduct".

From the same ordinance: "'Harass' is defined as any repeated non-verbal conduct..."

Similarly, the definition of verbal conduct: "...any repeated verbal communications which, by its very utterance, inflicts injury..." This language that is so vague as to be easily misapplied & relies on circumstance. What words are considered injurious? Is this language designed to prevent libel? Or is this so broad as to prohibit legitimate complaint, dissatisfaction, and/or expressions of grievance? This deserves a closer look, as poorly written law too easily leads to unintended consequences & suppression of fundamental rights.

As this land is currently functioning as a park, I am concerned about the annexation and rezoning to PL. As we are seeing with the Fuller Park Train Station debacle, Public Lands are subject to all sorts of uses that would not be considered public (leasing for a private parking lot for example) nor park-like (construction of a Park & Ride lot, or a 1200 car parking structure)

Rate manipulation is tiresome and not in the best interest of current city residents, in many cases long-standing business owners are being priced out of their ability to pay for reserved spots in the structures for their employees, managers, etc- these spots are then leased instead to rich kids to park their sports cars, when they are not wrapping them around a tree on Huron River Drive.

Chosen merely as an example, isn't it required that minutes of public bodies be filed in a timely manner? It's March 2018, we should not be getting minutes from 2017 any more. Somebody needs to step up and turn these over faster, or we need to limit any decisions made by council on matters suggested by or involving these boards & commissions until all minutes are up-to-date. How can one govern in a fair and educated manner if one doesn't even know what is happening around them?
