- 9-a 17-1795 City of Ann Arbor Planning Commission will consider an amendment to the City Master Plan through adoption of The Treeline - Allen Creek Urban Trail Master Plan. This Plan will be considered as an element of the City Master Plan and can be reviewed at www.a2gov.org/treeline <<http://www.a2gov.org/treeline>> . Staff Recommendation: Approval

City Planner, Jeff Kahan, briefly explained the Treeline Urban Trail as it relates to the Master Plan.

Connie Pulcifer introduced herself and Oliver Kiley, explaining that he works for Smith Group J.J.R. and that they have been working together on the Treeline Urban Trail. They briefly explained the plan for the trail, highlighting the process that began the project, the framework plan, technical aspects, and implementation. The entire presentation is available for viewing via recording on a2gov.legistar.com/Calendar.

PUBLIC HEARING:

Vince Caruso, 556 Glendale Circle, representing the Allen Creek Watershed Group, described the successes of greenways in other communities. He explained the benefits that the community would experience with the implementation of a greenway, giving examples of walking and biking to work, getting in touch with the outdoors, and spending time with others in their community. He also discussed the benefits that would be experienced by homeowners living in the floodplain if appropriate floodplain mitigation was implemented. He described the relationship between the greenway and the University of Michigan, explaining that it would be important to partner with them.

Ed Vielmetti, 1210 Brooklyn Street, expressed concern with the cost estimates included in the project, pointing out that the majority of expenses will be taking place at the north end of the trail. He explained that it would be beneficial to show cost breakdowns for each section of the trail.

Joe O'Neill, representing the Treeline Conservancy, expressed support for the project, he explained that the Conservancy passed a resolution to support the Treeline Urban Trail, and it was supported unanimously. He also expressed appreciation for all who have worked on the project up to this point.

MOTION I:

Moved by Weatherbee, seconded by Milshteyn, that the Ann Arbor City Planning Commission hereby adopts The Treeline Allen Creek Urban Trail Plan Master Plan (2017) as an element of the City of Ann Arbor Master Plan.

MOTION II:

Moved by Weatherbee, seconded by Milshteyn, that the Ann Arbor City Planning Commission hereby recommends that the City Council adopt The Treeline Allen Creek Urban Trail Master Plan as an element of the City of Ann Arbor Master Plan.

COMMISSION DISCUSSION ON MOTION I AND MOTION II:

Commissioner Shannon Gibb-Randall inquired about pedestrian crossings.

Pulcifer explained that pedestrian crossings could include rapid flashing beacons, bump-outs, some sort of Treeline identity to allow cars to know that they are in a non-motorized space, hawk signals, or others depending on each intersection.

Kiley answered that the desire of the project is to have fewer crosswalks and that at a later time the specific methods can be identified.

Gibb-Randall inquired about trail placement near to the Kingsley property.

Pulcifer answered that the location was selected because the Kingsley property offered an easement.

Commissioner Julie Weatherbee inquired about the implementation of the trail and the effects on people in the community. She gave examples of the bus system, pedestrians, and traffic. She also inquired about the impact it will have on upcoming projects.

Lenart explained that historically the City of Ann Arbor has managed working with bodies like the Ann Arbor Transit Authority, safety providers, and other departments well.

Ackerman inquired about grant funding for flood mitigation as well as cyclist and pedestrian related projects. He also inquired about the other trail opportunities.

Pulcifer answered that grant funding will be pursued, she gave examples of Environmental Protection Agency [EPA] and Federal Emergency Management Agency [FEMA] funding. Pulcifer explained that the other trail opportunities can be funded through other projects, she gave examples of Downtown Development Authority [DDA] projects and the First and Ashley Corridor.

Commissioner Alex Milshteyn asked for clarification on Liberty and First, as the hub to get from the trail to downtown. He also commented on diversifying the funding sources for the project.

Pulcifer answered using a sketched picture of the location, describing the proposed bump-outs as well as potential sidewalks.

Chair Clein expressed appreciation for the work done to inform the community about the project. He explained that he has been out on what may become parts of the trail and commented on the work that needs to be done to connect and orient the trail in the most beneficial way. He commented that bike trails can be a huge assets for community members to commute.

Commissioner Sarah Mills commented on how well run the process was for the development of the Treeline Urban Trail. She inquired about the flexibility of the plan an how that works.

Pulcipher explained that the flexibility aspect is described in the text of the plan, but an important part of the flexibility lies in the relationships created through the planning process. She added that the Treeline Conservancy was able to connect with the community in a meaningful way.

Commissioner Erica Briggs commented that the project is an asset to the community.

Chair Clein commented that the trail connecting more places than just downtown is a positive part of the plan.

On a voice vote, the vote was as following, with the Chair declaring Motion I and Motion II carried. Vote: 8-0

Yeas: 8 - Erica Briggs, Kenneth Clein, Sarah Mills, Alex Milshteyn, Shannan Gibb-Randall, Scott Trudeau, Julie Weatherbee, and Zachary Ackerman
