

From: Julie Ritter <ritter.julie@gmail.com>

Sent: Saturday, January 23, 2021 9:47 AM

To: CityCouncil <CityCouncil@a2gov.org>; Crawford, Tom <TCrawford@a2gov.org>; Planning <Planning@a2gov.org>

Subject: Short And Sweet - Recovery Economics

Happy Saturday Morning

Is the City of Ann Arbor aiming to lead economic recovery through implementing new, better, public policies and procedures across a wide array of departments and plans?

Time Magazine has a new article about how Amsterdam is doing it:

<https://time.com/5930093/amsterdam-doughnut-economics/>

Also being started in California:

<https://doughnuteconomics.org/events/49>

Here is Kate Raworth's helpful guide:

<https://doughnuteconomics.org>

This is one of the ideas lying around to be picked up in a crises (Naomi Klein - Shock Doctrine)

Kate Raworth is highly regarded internationally, her ideas have gained traction across a broad scope of organizations and now municipalities are starting to implement her ideas. YAY.

Donut Economics supports everything. that. Ann Arbor. wants. to. do.

A2zero Carbon Neutrality

Healthy Streets

Preserving Natural Areas and Features

Providing Affordable Housing

Respectfully,

Julie Ritter

--

I'm beginning to think "hindsight is 2020" was some kind of message from a future time traveler that we all misunderstood. - Victoria Guida