I urge you to keep the public hearings for planning committee meetings. I moved to Ann Arbor in 1964 and it was still a beautiful town despite so much of its 19th century beauty destroyed by success and prosperity.

At this point in history, little of 1964 Ann Arbor remains except some neighborhoods and a few iconic buildings. Listen to what the townspeople have to say – they live here and love Ann Arbor – and should help inform your final decisions.
