Subject: Cross walk indicators

Seriously? What is a quick flashing flat blinky light mean to an out of towners in a state that mostly doesnt have crosswalk laws. I can respect the local crosswalk laws even though I don't believe in them (watch crosswalk videos in YouTube... you'll change your mind), but at least make it a light that everyone can recognize and allows drivers some warning. The standard stoplight would be a good example of average everyday citizen would recognize.

I almost hit someone because of your stupid lights. No it is not my fault... it is yours. If i lived/frequented down here i would start petitioning for change.

Thanks for sending my email to trash without regard or thought.
