STAFF REPORT:

PUBLIC HEARING:

Rich Fine, 618 Duane Court, Ann Arbor, member of A2 Citizens Climate Lobby, showed graphs, and referred to data tables (passed out previously) showing a $21-31 per month increase to renters for heat pump bill versus gas. He noted a $10 cost difference per month is what it would cost for cleaner, all electric, development.

Dr. Larry Junck, 2128 Wallingford Dr, Ann Arbor, spoke of the need for strong actions due to climate change. Asked the Commission to steer them in a better direction, as he spoke against their site plan to incorporate gas furnace and water heaters in the project, noting the development doesn't comply with the City's A2Zero plan.

Alisa Spitz, 809 Johnny Woods Dr. Ann Arbor, spoke in support of sustainable designers in the region, working towards ending the use of fossil fuels, going to all electric plan for all new units. She felt the development isn't meeting ambitious goals, as appliances will last for 8-20 years.

Donald Levit, 218 W Kingsley St, Ann Arbor, spoke in opposition to use of natural gas in this Phase 2. He spoke of the need for change to cleaner, sustainable energy.

David Gerk. 1315 S Maple Road, Ann Arbor, from Washtenaw Climate Reality, spoke about the record breaking summer this 2023. He thanked the developer for the changes already made but noted we need more.

Ken Garber, Haverhill Court, Ann Arbor, spoke about the approved Brownfield Plan for this project, noting the public shouldn't be paying for sustainable features on this project, that the developer should have incorporated anyway. He begged the developer to go all electric throughout this project.

Tom Stulberg, Lowertown, Ann Arbor said he liked some aspects of the project, and spoke of a carbon impact statement.

Luis Vasquez, 909 Barton Drive, Ann Arbor, spoke of the difficulty in balancing the extreme need for housing with the need for sustainability. He agreed with all previous speakers about the need for the project to be all-electric.

Alex Lowe, 3347 Fernwood Avenue, Ann Arbor, supported comments from previous speakers, noting he is pro heat pump and pro electrification; ground source heat pumps are a win-win. He said while it's okay with gas as backup and maybe for water heaters but nothing else, he expressed a desire for a better version of a project in R4E zoning, less parking or parking in structures.

Rita Mitchell, 621 Fifth Street, Ann Arbor, member of the Environmental Commission, but speaking for myself, thanked all speakers, adding we need to look long-term, as retrofitting is really expensive.

Noting no additional public speakers, the Chair closed the public hearing.

Moved by Councilmember Disch, Seconded by Commissioner Wyche, that:
