6. PUBLIC COMMENT (Persons may speak for three minutes about an item that is NOT listed as a public hearing on this agenda. Please state your name and address for the record.)

- Nancy Leff, 1512 Montclair Place, spoke to comprehensive plan changes noting she was worried about building height, lot combinations and subdivisions, housing equity and affordability, infrastructure, noting she supports increased density.

- Linda Dabrowski, 1202 Brooklyn, spoke to comprehensive plan changes, stating she is worried about college parties and lack of parking. Ms. Dabrowski requests slowing down comprehensive plan process.

- Brian Dabrowski 1202 Brooklyn, drew attention to the Planning Commission direction for 4-story, no-unit limits in low-rise residential areas, and shared concern about affordable housing, suggesting more time needed to work on the Comprehensive Plan recommendations.

- Lisa Jevens 1054 Martin Place, North Burns Park already has diversity of housing types noting new dwelling units almost always more expensive than what they replace.

- Rob Russell, 2004 Creslen Street, expresses skepticism toward the proposed plan, and spoke in opposition.

- Hank Berry, raised questions about Comprehensive Plan conversation from a previous meeting, expressing concern about the status of the plan process and other implications of the plan beyond zoning.

- Jean Leverage, Upper Waterhill resident, thanked the Planning Commission for volunteering, and noted that 80,000 people commute into Ann Arbor daily, but cannot afford to live in Ann Arbor; desire for flexible zoning and missing middle housing to match housing stock and what people want.

- Jill, Lower Burns Park resident, supports goals of increasing affordability, diversity of residents and housing options and environmental sustainability noting increasing density could play a role in this larger vision.

- Connor Reynolds 1108 Brooklyn Avenue, spoke in support of comprehensive plan, with distributed density not all concentrated in one neighborhood; suggestion that city take steps to incentivize missing middle housing, advocate at state level and consider pre-approved building plans.

- Ann Arbor resident, supports the idea of upzoning but is concerned with big buildings being constructed throughout the town, which may benefit future residents more than current ones; the resident expressed skepticism at achieving affordability through building alone and advocated for a more protective tree ordinance.

- Ursula Nelejoy, resident, echoes concerns about dramatic development, noting concerns about animal wildlife, and lack of affordable housing.

- Alan Gorst 1116 Henry, unsure about future of neighborhood, concern about everything becoming mixed use, and expressed worries about out of town property owners.

- Ellen Ramsburg 1503 Cambridge Road, noted everyone wants affordability, sustainability, and equity but doesn't see how this plan achieves that; additionally did not become aware of reduction in minimum lot size which allowed more duplexes until after change.

- Jim, 5th ward resident, doesn't think comprehensive plan is going to fix capitalism, supports making comprehensive plan as friendly as possible to all types of housing

- Kirk Westphal 3505 Charter Place, urged the Planning Commission to consider the draft Comprehensive Plan through lens of housing abundance, noting longer time frame to redevelop and see change.

- Scott Trudeau, resident, spoke in support of the direction of the Comprehensive Plan and new zoning, noting the high price of current rentals and need for new housing.

- Ken Garber, 28 Haverhill Court, concerned that there is no mention of fossil fuel combustion in comprehensive plan, just carbon goals in lowering commutes.

- Tom Stuhlberg, 1202 Traver Street, owns 16 homes which are mostly duplexes. If height of low-density residential districts goes to 48 feet, creates pressure of the neighborhood to sell to developers.

- Adam Jascewicz, Las Vegas Drive resident, spoke in support of the Comprehensive Plan.

- Erin Kinney, 1039 Olivia, expressed that each neighborhood should define its own future more and have a greater voice, noting issues with undergrads and high rate of rentals in neighborhood.

- Rich Vine, ward 5, representing Ann Arbor Chapter of Citizen Climate Lobby, supports comprehensive plan focusing on density and development along transportation corridors to increase affordability and reduce vehicle miles traveled., yet emphasized importance of decarbonizing buildings, which make up the majority of the city's emissions.
