Subject: Northside Avenue traffic calming

Hi Sabra,

I just saw Ryan Stanton's coverage of this from tonight's meeting.

I'm curious if any consideration was given to blocking Northside to through traffic by installing bollards at Delafield such that cars couldn't cut through. Bollards allow bikes to pass, of course.

Those residents at the east end of Northside would have a bit of distance added to a trip to/from Barton Dr., but it might be preferable for the majority of residents in the area relative to the inconvenience of the speed humps. I imagine that the cost would be less as well.

I haven't looked yet to see if such a bollard installation is in the city's traffic-calming toolkit but I'll check it out. If it's not it would be interesting to know why.

Steve

Sabra,

I've found the relevant documents regarding the traffic-calming toolbox as well as the history of the Northside project, and I found the answer to my question.

No need to reply.

Thank you for your calm eloquence tonight. I've already heard from a number of task force members who appreciate it.

It is tough work, but I appreciate that you are there.

We have a lot of work to do -- but it is an exciting topic!
Thanks for spending the time today.

Hi, Sabre --

I have just gone back to my Statement about the the Fuller Parking lease and worked on it a bit more. Do I have time to look once more in the morning to get it to you before WEMU?

Thank you.

Chris.
