This public/private partnership is not working so well - it's time we bring these services back in-house.

Doubling fines for street parking to a figure 4x higher than the minimum wage? $35 for an expired meter just to force people into parking structures? Have we lost sight of what running a city is really all about? It's certainly not about threatening residents and visitors with onerous fines. This increase should be opposed by all sensible people.

There are too many changes slipping through without proper scrutiny. What's the hurry?

Should we be approving land use in a residential area that is designed to be vacant most of the year? How does this support our goals of creating more affordable housing?

I have concerns about moving this polling place from the easily accessible Community Center, which is located on a transit route, to the neighborhood church quite a ways away, and which has no transit service. What sort of notice will the clerk be sending to 1-4 registered voters informing them of this change, prior to the election, and will there be transit assistance for those who need it?

The current council majority has shown, through their dealings with this property, and the Library lot property, that they cannot be trusted to extract the maximum community benefit when disposing of Public Lands. In addition, the terms of the bond deal seem designed to benefit the banks and not the taxpayer - if we are suggesting an interest-only payback in a time of uncertain credit markets. Could have a poor outcome for taxpayers if we fail to dispose of the property in a timely manner.

This site plan is repugnant to everyone who believes that the city's Master Plan should be followed, both in letter and spirit. I oppose anything that allows this project to move forward. Shame on the Mayor and council cronies for supporting this rezoning and land use against the wishes of 100's of residents. How does this support our goals of creating more affordable housing?
