1	I saw via postcard earlier this summer amidst visitors and vacations that this renaming was going to happen for Winchell. The postcard was seeking names for potential choice. This was less than 6 weeks ago. We walk in this neighborhood often but not during the last three weeks	8/30/2021 9:51 PM in that direction due to the temperature in the 90s, family vacation first week of August and out of town visitors the third week of August. Just saw the sign tonight as we drove into the neighborhood from a direction we don't always take and the deadline for the vote was/is today. I hope this counts. I'm disappointed. This was TOO short a time to rename a park that has been around at least since we bought our house in this neighborhood 30 years ago. I'm disappointed that this seems to be something to just get over and done with. I'm glad we were lucky enough to take a walk tonight SPECIFICALLY to see the sign we saw for the first time earlier today. WHEN DID THIS SIGN GO UP? Has it been posted anywhere in the news? on Facebook? on Nextdoor? On radio stations? We should have seen or heard it if so. I'm disappointed that something that will last for decades or forever was given so little attention. I wonder who was in charge of this effort.

13	I would like it named after Coleman Jewett. Knew the man, and he was a gem in this community.	8/20/2021 5:53 PM
14	Very happy the Winchell name is getting removed. Strongly feel it should be name for a person of color and or a woman. There are enough things named after white men.	8/18/2021 4:51 PM

20	I think that the park should be named after a distinguished member of the U of MI faculty, as intended when the neighborhood was established and following the precedent of the street names, and the current name of the park. The University has had a number of highly influential and accomplished faculty members whose naming would "celebrate(s) racial diversity and social equity." Please do some more research on this.	8/15/2021 4:28 PM

25	The choices presented here are limited and inappropriate--several have little meaningful personal connection with Ann Arbor and none are connected with the surrounding neighborhoods in which the park is located. These choices should include Coleman Jewett, an outstanding Ann Arbor educator and citizen leader who worked for decades at Tappan Middle School, as well as several outstanding faculty at UM notable for their commitment to civil	8/14/2021 6:48 PM

41	I notice that all six of your prospective new namesakes are associated with elite-level education and/or the school system. But none of them seem to have any association whatever with either the neighborhood around the park, nor with parks in general. Perhaps you could name an elite prep school after one of your six namesake candidates, and then re-name Winchell Park after someone more appropriate to a small neighborhood park? (And also show some sign of co-ordination with the City over re-naming Winchell Dr. - which has the exact same infamous-name problem as your Park.)	8/5/2021 2:32 PM
